

Solterra Group of Companies

A Legacy of Superior Design and Quality by Susan M Boyce

For over a decade and a half, the team of professionals at the Solterra Group of Companies have specialized in building landmark, award-winning townhome and high-rise communities across Vancouver, the Fraser Valley, and as far north as Squamish. Guided by the philosophy that a home is more than four walls — it must incorporate exceptional design, solid construction, and above average finishes — the Solterra team is proud of their extensive, varied expertise and remains solidly committed to providing quality homes that meet the demands of an evolving marketplace.

“Solterra has grown to become one of the leading new home developers in the Lower Mainland,” says Laura Rizzo, Vice President of Marketing. “We set high standards for ourselves, and we live up to them — which is why we have enjoyed such unprecedented success with communities like Sunberry in Surrey, Talon at Eaglewind in Squamish, and Sunridge in Langley.”

Now, Solterra is entering yet another new phase with the opening of their brand new Solterra Corporate Presentation Centre in downtown Vancouver. “The centre will be a place where people can come to discover more about Solterra as a company as well as experience our newest communities,” Laura says.

Dolce: Sizzling Downtown Lifestyle

With construction underway, the sales program for Symphony Place has now joined Eaglewind in the new presentation centre. Expanding on the success of its sister tower, Vita, Dolce homes include a dazzling array of city-savvy features — horizontal grain kitchen cabinetry, luxurious stone countertops, concealed Leibherr refrigerators, and oversized windows to savour the breathtaking cityscape views.

There’s also the completely new Private Collection found only on floors 25 and above. These sophisticated two-bedroom residences offer cutting edge style and design at its urban finest. Richly stained wood and glass cabinets with the crisp, clean lines of brushed nickel pulls in contemporary styling; polished natural stone counters; and a choice of colour palettes aptly named Tuxedo and Diamond — one a timeless yet distinctly avant-garde marriage of black and white, the other an intriguing blend of grey on white with cabinets boasting a shimmering silver finish — it all adds up to that unique sense of style which truly “is” Vancouver.

“Solterra has grown to become one of the leading new home developers in the Lower Mainland.”

If you love the city life, Dolce is where you find it all — proximity to a vibrant mix of performing arts, some of Canada’s most sophisticated shopping along Robson Street, as well as the delights of Stanley Park and the Yaletown seawall. And if you hurry, there is still excellent availability on a broad range of contemporary condominium homes including the exclusive residences of the Private Collection. Prices start at $459,900 for a one-bedroom and flex or $739,900 for a Private Collection two-bedroom. But don’t wait long, because they’re selling fast.

Streams: Life in Canada’s Outdoor Recreation Capital

Also just released is the third phase of Eaglewind in Squamish. A collection of two- and three-bedroom townhomes, Streams is set against the natural grandeur that makes this municipality world-famous for its active, outdoor lifestyle. Homes feature nine-foot ceilings, natural stone counters, real wood cabinetry, and a location only steps from the newly revitalized downtown core so you can enjoy all the urban amenities you expect in addition to Eaglewind’s 11-acre park, community gardens, walking trails, and tennis courts. Even better, you’re still less than a 45-minute drive to downtown Vancouver. Streams at Eaglewind offers a total of 50 two- and three-bedroom townhomes priced from $449,900.
